

As a clinical trial management service provider to the pharmaceutical, biotechnology, Medical Device industries and to Academia/Government, MED DEVICES constantly requires clinical trial investigators who enjoy remaining close to medical science and to be the part of development of new medicines/ devices.

Clinical trial investigators play a crucial role in the development of new medicines and with the ever expanding number of clinical trials and non-interventional research studies being conducted, we are keen to hear from you if you are an experienced investigator.

MED DEVICES is looking for investigators who are interested in participating in our clinical trials.

Please fill out the investigator questionnaire and submit to us online.

